

January 16, 2009

Nikisha Funches, a former Project Hope participant and current Ambassador, was interviewed as part of a segment on Warm Coats, Warm Hearts promotion led by Good Morning America and Burlington Coat Factory.

Cradles to Crayons was the agency that donated the coats to Project Hope for our clients.

In the broadcast portion of her interview, Nikisha reported that homeless and low income families have to choose between food and warm clothing for their growing children. It is a real service to families to receive warm coats, she said.

Nikki's children, Praize and Journi, model their new coats.

