Michael, a Project Hope child from Dorchester gets a winter clothing pack from Bank of America Massachusetts President Bob Gallery. Volunteers from Bank of America and non-profit organization Cradles to Crayons delivered winter packs to Dorchester and Roxbury families at the Project Hope center. The winter packs, which are made up of basic cold weather clothing, were made possible by a $50,000 grant from Bank of America to Cradles to Crayons to help them meet their goal to provide winter necessities for 12,000 children in need.
